She Can't Tie 'Em

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz.—(AP)—A woman campaign to put ties around the necks of college boys at Arizona State Teachers College isn't getting anywhere.

Mrs. Margaret "Mother" Hanley, head of the dining hall for 30 years, first tried threats.

Then, she collected several dozen ties and hung them at the dining hall entrance, where they could be grabbed on the run. None got used.

So Mother Hanley gave up.

Gladine B. Morris Enters Campaign for Co. Treasurer

Mrs. Morris Has Had 17 Years' Business Experience

PLEDGES SERVICE

Law-Secretary Service Gives Understanding of Office

Mrs. Gladine Bennett Morris announced Saturday in The Star's political announcement column that she would be a candidate for the office of Hempstead county treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election August 13.

Her statement follows: "In today's Hope Star I am announcing my candidacy for the office of treasurer of Hempstead county."

Here 36 Years

"Thirty-six years ago, I moved to Hope with my parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bennett. I am a graduate of the Hope High School, and finished a normal course, receiving a state professional license when a girl in my teens. I taught school two years in the rural districts of this county, and four years in the Hope Public Schools. Later finishing a business course at the Metropolitan Commercial college of Dallas, Texas; and for the past 17 years I have been identified with the business and professional life of Hope in the capacity as secretary in law offices. I have been a widow for many years, am the mother of a daughter, and my educational background and business and professional experiences fit me particularly for the office to which I aspire. I will render faithful, efficient and courteous services if elected."

"There are no political issues whatsoever involved. The treasurer's office is a business office and should be filled by a well-trained, energetic, competent individual; one who knows office technique, and the proper handling of books and records. All the revenue collected for the expense of the county government is paid to the treasurer, and by the treasurer deposited in the bank, designated as county depository, to the credit of the various departments of the county government, and paid out by warrants drawn by the proper authorities against such funds. The law provides in certain terms just how the various funds paid in shall be credited and how they shall be paid out, including all school funds. The fact that a warrant is drawn against a certain fund by proper authorities does not necessarily mean that the treasurer should pay it; and in this respect, I will, as in all matters pertaining to the office, follow the law."

To Make Campaign

"I have a great desire to serve my county in an official capacity. I think I deserve this promotion and am entitled to it. While I know many of the voters in the county, it is my intention to make a vigorous campaign and contact every voter personally. It is here that I solicit the vote and influence of the voters of Hempstead county that desire value received for every dollar paid a county official."

"There are three requirements essential to the efficient handling of

"Job Clinics" to Teach Applicants

Hope Among Cities Teaching How to Apply for Job

LITTLE ROCK — An advanced service in job placements has recently been inaugurated by the Arkansas State Employment Service according to information released by Eli W. Collins, Director of the Unemployment Compensation Division.

These "Job Clinics" are conducted for the primary purpose of instructing unemployed individuals in methods for obtaining interviews preparatory to job applications and for conducting their part of the interview. Other phases of employee-employer relationship are discussed in the clinics. They include discussions by qualified leaders, employers, and general discussions of actual demonstrations by clinic attendees.

The local Arkansas State Employment Service office sponsors the clinic and furnishes part of the leadership; cooperation in conduct of the clinic is usually furnished by local vocational teachers, leading employers and advertising specialists.

Conferences of this type are formed for the general public co-sponsored by interested local groups such as Y. M. C. A.'s and civic clubs. Others are co-sponsored by C. C. C.'s, N. Y. A. resident projects, high schools and colleges. The most successful are usually groups of approximately 25 interested unemployed persons. Meetings are of from one and one-half to two hour duration and are conducted in a series of one each week for ten weeks.

The first such clinic in Arkansas was started in Little Rock about eight weeks ago, the second in Hope three weeks ago and the third in Batesville last week. They are being held with marked success generally throughout the entire fifty-one State Employment Service Agencies.

"The results so far from this type of cooperation with unemployed persons has been most encouraging," commented Mr. Collins. "Any groups in the state who are desirous of obtaining a clinic without cost to the participants are invited to make requests for same in a letter addressed to me at 122 East Second street, Little Rock, advising what type of individuals desire to form the group, what organization would co-sponsor, with the State Employment Service, and any other appropriate information."

"After all, the main objective of the Employment Security program is placing as many unemployed individuals as possible in job openings. The only permanent cure for unemployment is employment."

Washington Keeps War Gaze on One Main Point---London

Johnson Weighs Germany's Chance to Win Quickly

New Bases in Holland to Allow Swift Plane Blows

TO STRIKE LONDON

His Article Written Before Friday's Invasion

By THOMAS M. JOHNSON
NEA Service Military Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE
The following special article from Newspaper Enterprise Association received by mail the middle of the week was written several days before Germany's invasion of Holland and Belgium. But it has been of interest to the reader, in view of Mr. Johnson's expert analysis of why Germany wanted to invade the Lowlands.

WASHINGTON—While the world strains its eyes toward Scandinavia, the Mediterranean, the Balkans, or Holland for the next move in Europe's far-flung war game, in Washington the gaze is kept trained upon London. The capital of the beleaguered British Empire is the place where the war will be won or lost.

The British and French have lost the Scandinavian opportunity. Not only Norway is gone, but Sweden for the Germans about Narvik will have wrecked the railroad to Sweden's iron mines. The iron will now go to Germany, not by water alone, but by Sweden's railroads.

For this the British primarily can thank their own indecision and sluggishness. The ships they would not risk in a quick blow to cleave a way for a timely expeditionary force they have lost in covering that laggard force's headlong flight.

Whatever the fate of the Queen Elizabeth-class ship the Germans say they sank with bombs, five other battleships or cruisers have admittedly been damaged.

And these were losses caused by bombers that from Norwegian bases are closer than ever to British fleet bases alone, but also to Scotland.

Scotland Anchored

The fleet may move itself around behind Scotland, but Scotland cannot move behind anything. It cannot escape the terror that may stalk in any kind. For, informed opinion here believes the German air force is now about fit to loose upon Britain its dread Blitzkrieg.

When the war began the Nazi air wing found to its dismay that it might take on Czechoslovakia or Poland, but not the western Powers. Compared to British, French and American planes, its ships hadn't the speed, range or maneuverability. The Germans could not face the menace of immediate reprisal against their industrial area, just a hop from the industrial area, just a hop from the Maginot Line. The air force had virtually to rebuild itself; evolve new types and gadgets.

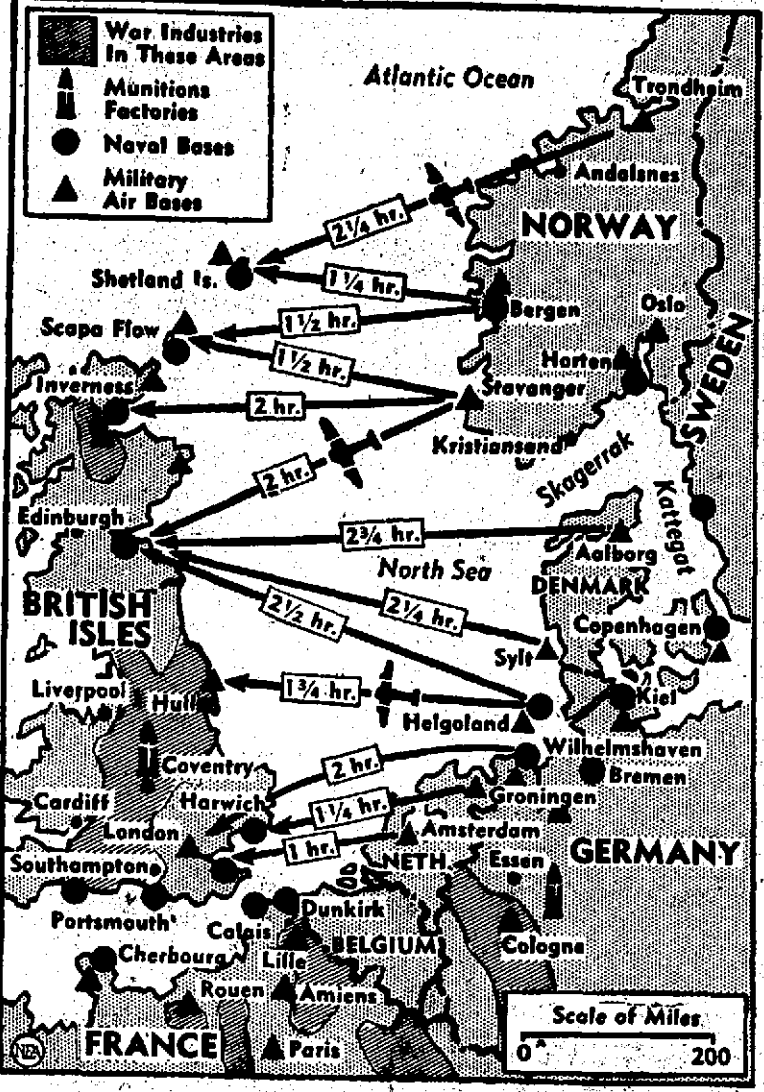

This it has done, with puncture-proof fuel tanks, more armor and cannon. These things Gen. H. H. Arnold, army air corps chief, has just mentioned here in Washington; but he has not mentioned that Britain was doing the same thing. She is not sure she wants all cannon, but in everything else she is believed to be coming along so fast that unless the Germans strike very soon, they may strike in vain—and then, be struck anyway.

To Washington, Germany seems to be at the peak of her form, not in the air alone, but on the ground, better now than she ever will be again. Her strategy is to strike and keep on striking, to win the war this summer. That accords with her tactical doctrine, and thus far it has worked. Now what?

Holland Coming Up?

Why not Holland? There Germany's air force can operate with telling effect not only against the Dutch but against British attempts to land troops along the coast. Right now Britain should be quietly rehearsing that very thing as Germany rehearsed her Norwegian landings. For British troops ferried across by sea and air could greatly aid in holding north Holland until more British, and French, too, arrived via Belgium.

From there—and from Norway and Germany itself—German planes would ferry across to Britain. Their cargo

The fleet can move around behind Scotland, but Scotland cannot move behind anything. Map shows precarious position of British fleet and London—now that Hitler has his new air bases in Norway, and may acquire more new ones in the Netherlands.

The City of Hope was represented by Charles O. Thomas, city engineer, and the Chamber of Commerce by Guy E. Bays, president, A. W. Stubbsman and R. P. Bowen.

Republicans Plan Campaign in State

Urge State to Abandon Its One-Party System

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., came to traditionally Democratic Arkansas Saturday to address an appeal to the South to "throw of the chains of the one-party system" in the 1940 general elections, and join the "patriotic band of Republicans and Democrats who will unite this year to save the nation."

He spoke before the Arkansas Republican convention, met to elect national convention delegates and nominate for state officials.

Rural Housing Is Starting in State

To Let Contracts in Lonoke—Judge Rider Interested

LITTLE ROCK—Contracts for erection of about 50 dwellings in the Lonoke county housing project under supervision of the United States Housing Authority are expected to be awarded September 1, it was said Friday.

The federal government has appropriated $563,000 for the construction of a 300-unit low-rental project. About $5,000 for preliminary work is expected to be advanced by the government soon.

W. M. MacPherson, regional senior planner of the USA, and A. J. Campbell, regional project planner, were to meet with housing authorities of Chicot, Ashley, Bradley and Drew counties at Lake Village Friday. They will meet with those of Randolph, Lawrence, Mississippi, Craighead, Greene and Crittenden counties and the city of Blytheville, at Jonesboro Monday afternoon.

Mr. MacPherson said following a meeting of the Housing Authority of the county of Lonoke at Lonoke Thursday that a demonstration house will be built between Scott and England on Highway 30 or between Little Rock and Carlisle on U. S. 70.

POPE FOR DUTCH

Catholic Prelate Speaks for Protestant Holland

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Dutch shock troops fighting for invaded Holland were reported officially Saturday to have recaptured the air-dromes at the Hague and Rotterdam in bitter face-saw battles which saw the Hague field change hands three times.

The Dutch foreign minister declared no airdromes in the Netherlands remain in the hands of the German forces.

He declared the Germans at Rotterdam had been wiped out at a cost to the Dutch of more than a thousand lives.

On other fronts the Dutch and Belgians reported their troops were holding.

Thousands of British and French troops poured into the Low Countries to help dam the tide of invasion.

BERLIN—(AP)—One of Belgium's strong forts before strategic Liege, where the Germans were checked crucially in the World war, is in German hands after proving "completely defenseless against a surprise attack of German planes" DNB reported Saturday.

Authorized sources claimed Belgian and Netherlands airports occupied by the Germans in the new blitzkrieg continued definitely in German possession "though German troops there were fighting with Belgian and Dutch troops."

The high command reported: Destruction of three to four hundred enemy planes on the ground. Shooting down of 23 more in France, Holland and Belgium.

Repulse of enemy border troops in the Netherlands and Belgium. Sinking of an enemy destroyer, submarine and two merchant ships. Bomb hits on a British battleship and cruiser off Navik, Norway. Acknowledged loss 11 own planes and 15 missing.

Pope Favors Dutch

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—Pope Pius Saturday threw his moral force in support not only of Catholic Belgium, but also the Duchy of Luxembourg, and Protestant Holland in messages to their rulers saying he is praying for their triumph.

The Pope's message was made public shortly after he received Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, in a separate private audience.

Markets Crash

NEW YORK—(AP)—Launching of Hitler's "total war" involving the rich Low Countries rocked world financial centers Friday. Stock and bond prices crumpled in New York, London and Paris. Amsterdam, heretofore the leading European neutral bourse, was closed. British currency in New York tumbled to the lowest level on record. Dealings halted in Dutch and Belgian monies.

Rubber and tin—of which the Netherlands East Indies are one of the world's chief sources of supply—went kiting.

Wheat at Chicago rose as much as five cents a bushel, finished up 3 to 4 1/8. Other grains registered smaller advances. In New York, such sensitive staples as raw silk, hides, wool and cottonseed oil rose abruptly.

Cotton dropped $1.50 to $2.25 a bale, as extension of war seemed likely to cripple an important export market. Stock losses ranged from $1 to $5 a share in the many leading issues. Steels and aircrafts were higher at times, but motors and rubbers were under particular pressure. Price averages showed the sharpest setback in nearly six months.

Good Customers

American foreign trade is closely tied up with the Low Countries, and particularly with the Dutch Indies. About eight per cent of America's total exports last year went to Holland, Belgium and their possession, close to a third of which was to the Dutch Indies. They supplied America with close to 10 per cent of its iron.

Gentleman's Estate for Sale

Two things happened to appear in the same newspaper a few days ago. One was an account of speech made by former President Hoover in New York. The other was an inconspicuous classified ad.

Mr. Hoover spoke of the American dream, the dream of a great country and a great civilization utterly free from the class distinctions which mar Old World civilizations. "This is the dream of a free, classless country is unique to this world," said Mr. Hoover. "It is the dream at which all others are pale."

Mr. Hoover was right, and he might have gone on to say that the dream to which we achieve this dream and make it real, is the degree of our success. The degree to which we fail to achieve it is the measure of our failure.

Then the little advertisement caught the eye. It read: "Gentleman's estate for sale." So many acres of land, such and such barns and buildings. Such and such frontage on a clear stream. So and so many acres of woods.

It is not an uncommon expression, and yet it angles fiercely on the ear against such words as those of Mr. Hoover.

What was meant here by "gentleman's estate"? Obviously the term was meant to call up the picture of the English country gentleman, the hereditary heir to vast estates, the country magnifico, fox and hounds, the remnants pulling a forelock as "the master" canter by, negligently acknowledging the greeting. In short, the term "gentleman" connected with the word "estate" calls up a picture of something which is not part of the American way of doing things.

It is true that Washington, and even democratic Jefferson, and scores of the founding fathers of this country lived on "gentleman's estate." But Colonial life was largely English life transplanted. In spite of the revolution and the part these "traitors" took to their class played in it, genuinely American life did not arise until much later.

The term "gentleman" is not and must not become a class term in America. It is far too precious for that. Our American hope is to produce gentlemen in all classes, with and without estates. Our American hope is to call those gentlemen who earn the name not by the abilities to live in estates, but by those qualities which alone produce clear title: courtesy, respect for and thoughtfulness of others, kindness, modesty, and a certain sense of stooping to the unworthy.

As Mr. Hoover made clear, America alone sets up the ideal of a truly classless society. The Marxists imply dictatorship of a single class, over the conduct of affairs to the elite class of party functionaries. Other countries cling to the mouldy remains of aristocracy.

America still strives for a society where there shall be no real connection between "gentleman" and "estate," as indeed there is none in fact.

HOW TO EAT TO BEAT THE HEAT

Nutritionist, Cleveland Health Council

We Begin on Milk and End on It; We Ought to Drink More Milk

Man starts off life on a milk diet and quite often he ends up the same way! Milk never lets the human race down.

And there's a reason. It is the most nearly perfect food. It furnishes the body more of the building and regulating substances than any other food—and more, cheaply at that.

The statement that children need the equivalent of one quart of milk daily is the result of long and careful scientific experiments. Milk protein, the builder of muscle and other soft tissue, is of the highest quality found in any food. One pint (two cups) of milk compares favorably in protein content with any one of the following:

Two large eggs, 25 (3 1/4-inch) strips of bacon; one small serving of meat or fish; five medium-sized potatoes; five slices of bread; one-half cup of peanuts.

Probably the biggest gift of milk is its calcium (lime). The body needs lime to build bones and teeth. Serving for serving (no other food can substitute for milk in supplying calcium. Milk also contains appreciable amounts of the mineral, phosphorus.

One pint of milk (two cups) contains the same amount of calcium as any of the following foods:

Eighty apples, 65 medium bananas, 24 medium oranges, 35 medium potatoes, 10-12 servings of 3 1/2 ounce carrots, 12 servings of same weight cabbage, 17 to 18 eggs, 38 slices whole wheat bread, 40 slices of white bread (made with milk), 140 cups of corn flakes or 22 cups cooked oatmeal.

Studying this list it is easy to understand why children can't possibly eat sufficient food to get all their calcium from non-milk foods. Many other foods contain calcium, but for the most part only in small quantities.

But protein and calcium is not all of the story of milk. It contains other vitally necessary minerals and an abundant supply of Vitamin A and riboflavin, along with a generous amount of Vitamin B1 (thiamin) and nicotinic acid and a variable amount of Vitamin C. Some milks have been fortified with Vitamin D and are so labeled.

NEXT: Why you are eating what you think you can't.

There is, as yet, no actual sign the U. S. is to be drawn into the war. Still, the vitalists are beginning to talk about how good grass is for us to eat.

Final Meeting Of Hope High School P. T. A.

The Junior-Senior P. T. A. held their last meeting of the school year Thursday afternoon, May 8th at 3:30 at high school.

Various reports were heard from the committee chairmen.

The president's report of the year's work accomplished by this organization was very interesting.

Miss Henry told of the skin test for T. B. that was given at all schools in Hope with an unusually small per centage showing positive.

She expressed deep appreciation to the whole community for such fine spirit shown and cooperation that made this test possible.

Mrs. McFadden, program chairman, expressed her appreciation for cooperation received in the fine programs she has brought to the association each month.

The president's message was beautifully given by Miss Mary Droke.

Mrs. D. L. Bush thanked the organization for sending her to the state convention in Fayetteville as a delegate.

She brought a very fine report of the convention. Among the many fine speakers were: Gov. Carl E. Bailey, whose subject was "Arkansas Citizens Look at Education."

Mr. Witt Blair, Principal Peabody School, Fort Smith, who spoke on "What's Right with the Public School."

Miss Willie A. Lawson, Executive Secretary, Arkansas Education Association, whose subject was "An Educator Looks at the Parent-Teacher Association."

chinson, a noted Methodist Minister of Fayetteville, who spoke of "Spiritual Values in Democracy." This address was so very fine it is being repeated here as given to the P. T. A. by Mrs. Bernard O'Dwyer.

"His address was centered around a picture which he had seen in Europe. The picture was 'The Holy Family,' painted by Andrea Del Sarto, Italian artist of the 16th century. Rev. Hutchinson described the picture and applied it to our 'Home Life' as it should be today.

His first impression was the happiness which existed in the home. Happiness which comes from a Christian marriage based on cooperation, understanding and companionship. Such was the bond between Mary and Joseph. Mary went with Joseph to pay taxes; Joseph is shown in many pictures helping Mary.

Rev. Hutchinson lamented the high divorce rate in this country. Statistics show one out of eight marriages end in divorce. If husbands and wives of today would follow the examples of Mary and Joseph and re-establish the Christian home, the happiness and well-being of the nation would be safely guarded.

He then pictured the child Jesus, loved and protected by his parents in a home where happiness and contentment reigned supreme. In such a home children, not considered not heavy burdens, but sweet pledges of love. He stressed the importance of 'fixing' the child to take its place in the world. 'Fix' it with good habits. Habits are formed easily, and good habits are as strong as bad habits and when deeply rooted function automatically. They are like a bridge to carry one over the rough places. The child should get its training in the home. This is a great task and requires wisdom and patience. How easy it should be to train a tender child, when dogs can be trained, horses and even fleas. This responsibility rests entirely on the parents. Teachers only assist. Other agencies are a great help also, but there are no substitutes for the mother and father.

"So train up the child in the way he shall go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." A child, trained properly mentally, physically, and spiritually is an asset to any home and also any community.

In one corner of the picture was a group of angels, watching with approval the Holy Family performing their earthly duties in accordance with God's holy law, hovering closely as if to guide and protect them from the evils of the world. In the other corner of the picture was the Almighty Father bending over the home with paternal affection. We should all be ever mindful that God, in like manner, is watching over us, eager to shower His blessings upon his faithful and obedient children. How pleasing it must be to God to know that we depend upon Him for guidance and strength in building a home and in training our children. We should call upon Him often and will find Him ever ready and willing to lend a helping hand. With God we can do anything—without Him we can do nothing."

Mrs. O'Dwyer stressed that we re-furnish our homes with these spiritual values and we will find it a better and happier place in which to live. There are 70 million people in the United States not affiliated with any church. Who is to blame for this condition? Is it the home? Our children are receiving physical training—mental training—is their spiritual training as well taken care of? If the moral law is made the governing influence in the lives of men as outlined in Rev. Hutchinson's address, economic reform will follow and youth problems will be solved."

Mrs. H. O. Kyle, president of City Council P. T. A., told of the entertainment and recreation planned for the delegates. She told of Judge Ragsdale, president of the high school P. T. A., in El Dorado. This association carried away many honors.

Two large posters beautifully made by Mrs. O'Dwyer were displayed. One represented "Right or Wrong" for students of high school age. The other was "Program for the School Year."

New officers were installed by Mrs. C. D. Lester. Mrs. Jim Marindale, president. Mrs. E. A. Morsani, vice president. Mrs. Claude Nunn, secretary. Mrs. Joe Floyd, treasurer. Mrs. Crutcheff, historian.

Mrs. Morsani read a very unique letter from the ne waste president, Mrs. B. V. Hall, of Texarkana.

Miss Henry expressed appreciation for the entire group, by a rising vote of students of high school age. The officer was "Program for the School Year."

Brown and white printed silk chiffon makes this smart ensemble which mother wears for luncheon with father on Mother's Day. It includes a dress with shirred yoke and white eyelet embroidery collar and a collarless, straight-line coat with bracelet-length sleeves. Mother will wear it for all of her luncheon dates in town with father during the summer while the children are at camp.

The cool charm of dark silk sheer is endorsed for afternoon-evening parties on Mother's Day. This model—flattering to any mature figure—is of black silk chiffon with all-over tucking in scalloped effect. Collar is pink sheer.

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Mother's Day reminds mother that it's high time she did something about her wardrobe.

The children have plenty of clothes for school, play and parties, and their togs for summer camp have been ordered. Mother decides to get her own wardrobe in shape to enjoy those ten weeks while the children will be away, and she'll have time to do a number of pleasant things.

For shopping days, with an occasional stop-over at the dentist's, mother will put her money on dark sheers or neat, darkish silk prints. This year, prints with matching, full-length coats will catch and hold her attention.

Or she may get a print with navy or black silk coat, and then plan to wear the coat over other dresses, both printed and plain.

She likes jacket dresses, too. However, unless she's very slender and of medium height, she'll forego the longer, form-fitting, torso jackets in favor of just-below-hip-length or bolero types.

Ample Cutting for Mature Clothes

An ideal in-and-out-of-town summer wardrobe for a mature figure might include two silk prints—one rather casual and one slightly dressy. Either or both might be teamed up with matching jackets of matching full-length silk coats. The dressy one will be right for informal dinner anywhere.

Also, a dark sheer dress or suit, and, of course, some casual linen or cotton shirtwaister frocks for mornings around the house, or watching sports at the country club or to take along the week-end she spends in or near the children's camp.

Clothes for the mature should by all means be amply cut. A skin-tight dress will do nothing for the large figure except make it look larger. Armholes, particularly, must be easy fitting.

Dinner Dress is Very Safe

One whose upper arms are quite plump will be happier in a dinner dress with sleeves than in décolleté evening gowns. Fortunately, in this country, few and far between are occasions which absolutely demand a strictly formal gown.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bowen have as guest their daughter Miss Marjorie Bowen of Henderson State Teachers' College.

Mrs. M. M. McCleughan and son Merrill Edward left Saturday for Texarkana to spend the week-end with Mrs. McCleughan's mother, Mrs. E. L. Butler.

Miss Sara Ann Holland is home for Mother's day week-end with her mother Mrs. Kate Holland and other relatives.

Mr. John Barrow of Ouachita College, Arkadelphia is spending the week-end with relatives in Hope and Ozan. He was accompanied by his roommate Mr. Bill Richardson of Little Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Haynes, and Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Cornelius are spending Saturday in Shreveport, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Neely Black.

Mr. Harper Black of Houston, Texas was the Friday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Cornelius.

Miss Mary Evelyn Whitworth of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville is home for a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Whitworth.

Miss Willie Lawson of Little Rock is the weekend guest of Miss Beryl H. Lawson. Miss Lawson delivered the Commencement address to the members of the Garland City High School graduating class on Friday night.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Allison have as week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Slack of Little Rock and Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Slack of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Mrs. John Lee Morgan of Texarkana visited friends in Hope Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Murphy spent

For Mother's Day at the country club—a black and white printed silk crepe dress with collar and cuffs of white lace with net ruffles. Mother might wear this to bridge and informal tea parties all summer long.

Wednesday and Thursday in Pine Bluff, the guests of Mrs. Murphy's brother Mr. A. M. Hart and Mrs. Hart.

would surely be bombs—explosive and incendiary—and just possibly, as Chamberlain has anxiously hinted, more than bombs.

Perhaps men, desperate men, trained as sacrifice detachments to attack vital spots or even to seize a port where, aided by aircraft, German troops would land from transports. That would not seem impossible to Hitler. Nor would an attack from Holland and Belgium or the Maginot line.

It would seem least impossible at the moment his ambitions and those of Mussolini are vying over the Balkans, seeking the food, the oil, the copper that both must have for future conquests.

How About Chamberlain?

A long way from the Balkans or Holland or Scandinavia to London? Not so long—for from London will come the answer to the question: "Do they get away with it?"

That depends upon another question: "Does Chamberlain and company stay in power?"

If the answer is "Yes," then Washington throws up its hands. For most of Washington believes the Chamberlain government cannot win. And Washington believes that the United States that means a very great deal.

It's surprising how little we hear of California's ham and eggs after the Danish butter-and-bacon grab by Adolf.

ports, nearly half of which represented purchases from the Dutch Indies. Rubber was the most important item, amounting to about a third of America's supply of that staple.

Cotton Falls

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—General selling on Germany's newest invasion caused cotton futures to decline to $2.10 a bale here Friday. The decline was one of the severest since cotton started to climb at the outbreak of war.

Main influence behind the selling was war developments abroad which most traders said would further restrict the already dismal outlook for cotton exports next season.

Strength in other commodities caused momentary rallies in the early trading but selling pressure increased late in the session on reports that Prime Minister Chamberlain was resigning and the French cabinet being reconstructed. Weakness in Bombay, India, in that month will cease Friday and weakness in securities helped the decline.

Closing prices were barely steady with May at 10.35 cents a bale, July at 9.87 at 9.88, October 9.67 at 9.68, December 9.53 and March 9.35, or 27 to 28 points lower the the previous close.

away from her Austrian home to seek the glitter of Vienna, returned, a broken woman. She married a widower with two children, Alois Hitler, a man 23 years older than she, gave birth to two more children, one a sickly lad called Adolf.

In Adolf she hoped to realize everything she had not herself. She wanted Adolf to be a power in Vienna, the Vienna of art and culture and wealth.

They held one thing in common these mothers of the dictators—the thing common to all mothers—they wanted more for their sons than they themselves had known.

The Djugashvils, Stalin's parents, were pitifully poor. His father was a shoemaker, as the Djugashvils have been for generations. But Ekaterina Djugashvili wanted more for her "so so," who was born with his left arm partially paralyzed, and other defects. She had lost her first three children, vowed that if this child lived he would be a priest. To that end she sacrificed to send him to a seminary. But at the seminary "Soso" (her pet name) became the leader of a secret group of Socialists. He lived the life of a Revolutionary thereafter.

Stalin visited his mother last at Tiflis in 1935, an able Russian press made much of it. "Soso was always a good boy," said the mother of the man in the Kremlin, but to the last she considered his place unimportant beside the priesthood.

In Vienna Adolf Hitler failed his mother. He could not pass the examinations. At 48, already suffering from despair, defeat, disease, Klara Hitler died. Her death gave Adolf his "mission," ever since he says he has been fighting to justify his mother's sacrifice and faith.

Like his sturdy father, Benito Mussolini thrived on the Russian press. He made much of it. "Soso was always a good boy," said the mother of the man in the Kremlin, but to the last she considered his place unimportant beside the priesthood.

Plump, motherly Donna Mussolini constantly stood between her husband and Benito, wanting Benito to amount to something. Donna Mussolini died when Benito was 19, her wish unfulfilled.

High Type Negroes Found in This City

C. G. Galls Attention to Negro Membership

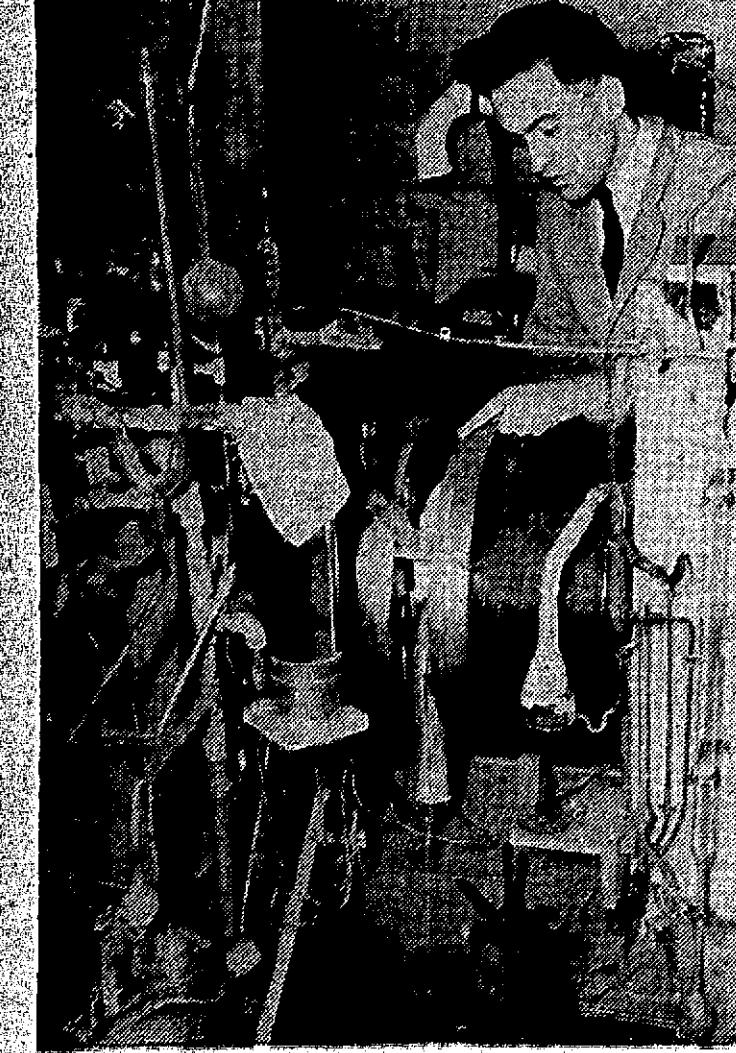

(Chamber of Commerce Release.)
The people of Hope have reason to be proud of the high type of negro citizens living here. No town in the state can boast of a more industrious, intelligent, law-abiding negro population.
This is due to a very large extent to the intelligent leadership of the negro population. It has been said there are more negroes in Hope with college degrees than any town of its size in the state.
But education alone is not responsible for this condition. It requires moral and religious training and sense of civic responsibility.
While the moral and religious training is no doubt due to the splendid leadership of the teachers and preachers, the sense of civic responsibility should go to the negro business leaders.
As evidence of the interest of the negro business leaders, the Chamber of Commerce is proud to announce that this week took a membership in this organization, enclosing a check for the annual dues.

Finds New Source of Power in Element

Dr. Alfred O. Nier, 27, University of Minnesota physicist, looks at the magnet, heart of a mass spectrometer, the apparatus with which he repaired the element uranium into its two forms. One of these forms, called U-235, of which he secured less than a millionth of an ounce, explodes with a force 30 million times that of TNT; and a pound of it has a potential power output equal to 3 million gallons of gasoline.

Pegasus of the Cavalry

Since most of the horses have been taken out of the of the cavalry anything is expectable. The latest wrinkle for this lately mechanized part of the U. S. Army is an autogiro, which theoretically comes into use when radios on scout cars fail. This plane is being used at the present time by the 6th Division which is on the way to Camp Beauregard, La., for Third Army maneuvers. The picture was made in Jackson Miss., camp of the Sixth.

Giant Owner's Half Brother Pitcher For the Yale Freshman Ball Team

AP Feature Service
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—There's a pitcher on the Yale freshman baseball team, who probably would have no trouble at all getting a try-out with the New York Giants after his college career, but he's not at all sure that he wants it.
He's red-headed Russ Stoneham, half brother of Horace Stoneham, the Giants' owner, and Coach Steve Yerkes is counting on him to do a lot of pitching for the fresh nine this spring.
Modest and unassuming, the husky, 20-year-old student was surprised that anybody should ask if he planned a future in baseball.
"You mean professionally?" he asked. "Why, I might, if I developed suf-

Little Rock Loses Fourth Straight

Chattanooga Takes First of Three Game Series

LITTLE ROCK — Ed Selway, lanky right-hander who tripped the Travelers as a pitcher for Fort Worth in the 1937 Dixie Series, proved just as effective in a Chattanooga uniform as he defeated Little Rock, 7 to 2, in the first of a series Friday night.
Slightly wild as he walked six men Selway held the Travelers to seven hits. Little Rock's first five came in the second and third innings, indicating the futility of Travelers' bats the rest of the way. Passes saw to it that Little Rock got men on base from start to finish and that's where 11 were left.
While Selway slung away, the 'Noogans rapped away against Little Rock pitching for 12 hits, including four doubles. Marvin Ulrich, who started, was removed in the seventh inning after being nicked for 10 hits and seven runs. However, the last two of the three in the third were unearned. Cotton Brazle, who relieved, went out for a pinch hit in the eighth and Bob Katz finished.
The teams will be idle Saturday. A double-header is scheduled for Sunday.

ber of the 440 and 880-yard relay teams that ran second. Bobby Ellen of Hope was second, scoring 12 1/2 points for Teachers, and Witcher of Tech was third with 11 1/4.
Two college records were broken, both by Tech relay teams. The 440-yard team of Howell, Bryan, Witcher and Fowler ran the distance in 43 seconds flat, knocking one-tenth of a second off the record set by Teachers in 1937. The 880-yard team composed of Howell, Bryant, Rose and Fowler was timed at 1:29.3. The previous record of 1:30.2 was set by Tech in 1933.
Baker of Russellville scored 14 points to lead individual scoring in the high school division. He won first place in the pole vault and discus, second in the javelin and fourth in the high jump.
Tiger Relay Teams Win
Little Rock High School relay teams won the 440, 880 and mile events, running without competition in the latter, the Tiger team of Wren, Price, Stegall and Watkins was timed at 3:33. The team set a new state record of 3:31.2 in the state high school meet last week.

Out for the Count

BILLINGS, Mont.—(P)—Who says the west is tamed and mild now? Willard E. Fraser, area census manager, says that more than half of 350 enumerators in eastern Montana, had to use horses to reach ranches and farms.
One enumerator hitched a trailer behind his car and took a horse along. When the car bogged down, the census man galloped over the hills counting noses.
Another census agent got lost for a day and froze his face.

Capital Tourists Are Disappointed

Senators Have Dropped Frock Coat and Whiskers

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — The visitor to Washington frequently returns home nowadays feeling that the senate was a disappointing feature of his sight-seeing tour.

He saw the senate in session. It was something of a letdown, particularly after such impressive spectacles as the black-robed justices of the Supreme court in their marble temple, and the Lincoln memorial with its life-like statue.

Not that Visitor Jones thinks the senators failed to comport themselves as members of "the greatest deliberative body in the world." It's just that they don't look so great.

To Jones they look just about the same as the fellows in the Rotary club. And Jones recalls reading in his boyhood of "the frock-coated gladiators of the national political arena."

In those days—the early 1900's—most of the senators wore Prince Alberts and beards. Newspaper correspondents wore silk hats and frock coats to the opening session.

Them Were the Days
Long before the late James "Ham" Lewis was recognized as the senate's undisputed Sultan of Saravia, there were Beau Dummels like Montana's William A. Clark, "copper king" and ex-Indian fighter, immaculate in one-button cutaway and striped trousers, and Mississippi's James K. Vardaman, magnificent in a white flannel suit and white hat contrasting with his coal black hair.

There was Jeff Davis of Arkansas, known as the sartorial Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the Senate. In Washington he wore the conventional frock coat, but by the time he reached his hills he had on scuffed boots, a frayed straw hat and patched pants.

Massachusetts' blue-blooded Henry Cabot Lodge, with a perfectly-trimmed Van Dyke and frock coat, and South Carolina's "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman, in a long black alpaca coat majestically swinging a palm-leaf fan, used to be sights.

In the late twenties, Senator Lee Overman of North Carolina wore a black cape with velvet collar and red satin lining. And big Tom Heflin of Alabama embellished Capital Hill with a voluminous black coat, cream-colored vest, grey trousers and a broad-brimmed black hat.

The arrival of summer in Washington then was heralded by Heflin's cream-colored pongee suit. Even Louisiana Huey Long came to the capital with a new morning coat.

Only a Few Left
The senate now boasts a score or more of snappy dressers—but only along conventional, business lines. Tom Connolly of Texas occasionally dons a frock coat, and Matthew Neely of West Virginia gives color to the senate scene with suits of plaid and green but there is nothing today to compare with the style of the pink-and-white whiskered "Ham" Lewis of Illinois.

Shirts in delicate shades of blue, green and brown, suits of rich tones, texture and tailoring, ties of soft linens, de luxe waistcoats and gleaming spats and shoes, all blended harmoniously. Add to these the whiskers, the wavy hair, the pince-nez and the grand manner.

Color blindness is more prevalent among men than women, proving that looking at the new spring hats is more disastrous than wearing them. The Nazis aren't quite ready for the next blitzkrieg.
